

Supply Chain Security & Loss Prevention Council

Who is SCS&LPC and What Does It Do?

The ATA Supply Chain Security & Loss Prevention Council is THE national non-profit organization dedicated exclusively to establishing and advancing those policies and practices that achieve maximum security (supply chain, personnel, cargo, truck, facility, data and homeland security); effective risk management and loss control, cargo theft reduction, successful claims management, and a secure, non-violent workplace. It creates value for its members through research, education, information dissemination, peer and law enforcement interaction, consensus building and incentive programs which inspire excellence and contribute to a more secure and profitable industry and nation.

What Benefits Do Members Enjoy?

- Professional affiliation with the only national, non-profit organization focused on supply chain security, claims issues, and loss prevention
- Access to operational and policy experts to answer your questions
- Timely updates on ever-changing legislation, regulations, legal cases, cargo thefts and news - quarterly conference calls, e-mail alerts and web site
- Bi-monthly newsletter with two posters; quarterly magazine - Informer
- Opportunity to exchange real-world wisdom and experience and provide input to industry best practices, policies, regulations, legislation, etc.
- Membership in Technical Committees (e.g., Homeland Security, Cargo Theft, Freight Claims/Loss Prevention, and Allied)
- Involvement in joint industry-law enforcement initiatives that seek to prevent and respond to cargo theft (training, UCR roll-out, database evaluation, state cargo theft legislation, resources, etc.)
- Participation in the Motor Carrier Freight Claims Survey benchmarking tool
- Professional development through education, alliances and collaboration with shippers, brokers, government agencies, law enforcement, etc.
- Awards and Recognition programs
- Membership directory online
- Member discounts on conferences, programs, webinars, products and exhibit space

What Do Industry Experts Have to Say About The Supply Chain Security & Loss Prevention Council?

"The opportunities are unlimited to gain and share supply chain security knowledge from industry leaders and peers, ATA staff and local, state and federal enforcement officials. Being a member helps security professionals stay informed of security related trends and recommended practices to assist in protecting company assets and customers' goods."

Brian Shutt, CCSP, Manager, Security, ABF Freight System, Inc.

"Trucking is a highly competitive industry but when it comes to securing the nation's transportation infrastructure, competition doesn't enter the equation. The Supply Chain Security & Loss Prevention Council is the perfect forum for sharing information and collaborating with stakeholders on security-related issues for the good of the industry and the country."

William F. Downey, Executive Vice President, The Kenan Advantage Group

"Being a member of the organization focused on the unique aspects and challenges of trucking security allows me to stay up to date on the regulations, laws and policies specific to my operation. It allows me to network with fellow security professionals, law enforcement, shippers and industry suppliers, and it provides me the contacts and information to get the job done."

Richard Martin, Corporate Director of Security, Knight Transportation Inc.

For more information call (703) 838-1919 or visit <http://SCSLPC.truckline.com>

