The Certified Cargo Security Professional™ credential is the industry's only supply chain security certification. To be certified, one must complete the detailed application, pay the associated fee and take an exam. To prepare for that exam, an "all-day" prep is being offered on May 6 at the hotel through the North American Transportation Management Institute at an additional cost. The course provides an overview of 11 security topics: facility, en route/ cargo, personnel, cross border, intermodal, information, food/ agriculture, hazmat, risk management, business continuity, and technology.

Conference attendees may sign up for the May 6 prep course at the discounted $250 rate by marking the appropriate boxes.

To learn more about the Certification, go to: <http://scslpc.truckline.com> and click on "Certified Cargo Security Credential" under News. You may also just take the exam if you've submitted your certification application and fee.
